

SAEN again sponsors 'Open The Cages Tour' in U.S. and Canada

EAST COAST – SAEN is once again sponsoring the barnstorming Open the Cages Tour (OTC) throughout July and August. Just as last year's SAEN-sponsored event covered the west coast, this year's multi-state, multi-nation activism tour features demonstrations, concerts, and documentary showings in cities along the east coast and Canada.

The tour will hold workshops and screenings of the anti-animal research movie Maximum Tolerated Dose (www.maximumtolerateddose.org) in the target cities. This unique, eye-opening documentary reveals the reality of animal experimentation based on the personal testimony of former lab insiders.

OTC mission statement: "Vivisection is one of the most grotesque and unnecessary forms of animal abuse and exploitation in the world today. We planned this tour to not only educate people about the fraudulent scientific research and billions of taxpayer dollars that are invested in dead-end animal trials, but also the suffering that beagle puppies, primates, rats, rabbits, guinea pigs, and other animals endure in these laboratories are not only a massive waste of life, but a waste of human knowledge as well."

SAEN will be lending our expertise by supporting the tour in key areas of media relations and technical lab data for each stop, as well as providing financial and material support. These key elements supplied by SAEN helped to make last year's tour effective in energizing activists in the target cities along with educating millions through news coverage which spread across the U.S. via local print and broadcast news media and the Associated Press.

"We are really excited to sponsor the tour again this year and are especially excited as SAEN staff will be personally participating in several of the tour stops," said Susan Dunne, SAEN's Outreach Director.
