

RECEIVED

NOV 22 2011

BY: _____

Column E Explanation

56-R-0002

Three raccoons were non-target captures during a field study.

One raccoon chewed front digits when trapped and was euthanized. The animal was euthanized because foraging activity would be adversely effected with this injury.

Two raccoons chewed rear digits and were released. The animals were examined and the injuries were deemed unlikely to affect the animal's ability to forage.